

Letter from Oliver Wendell Holmes to Alexander Graham Bell, April 22, 1883, with transcript

BIOGRAPHICAL MATERIAL (BOSTON) Copy of an autograph letter from Oliver Wendell Holmes thanking ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL for a reprint of, "Upon a Method of Teaching Language to a very young Congenitally Deaf Child" (George Sanders), which was published in the American Annals of the Deaf , for April, 1883. Boston, April 22, 1883. My dear Sir:

I do not often read the pamphlets sent me, for if I did, I should have little time for anything else. But your account of your experiments and experience with "Master George S." I have found so interesting that I have not only read it, but must thank you cordially for sending it. I have hardly met you since your name forms a part of the atmosphere — but I remember you with much pleasure in the days when you were placed in the civilised world where your name was not known.

Very truly yours, Oliver Wendell Holmes.
